Its More Difficult To Un-Learn

Frustation Of Pratit

| Reason | Description |
|------------------------------|--|
| Cognitive Biases | Our brains seek consistency and avoid cognitive dissonance, making it hard to change established beliefs. |
| Habit Formation | Habits become automatic responses, requiring conscious effort and consistency to change. |
| Emotional Attachment | Emotional ties to beliefs or practices make them difficult to let go. |
| Comfort Zone | Unlearning involves stepping into the unknown, which can be uncomfortable or scary. |
| Social Influence | Beliefs and behaviors are influenced by others, leading to potential social friction or isolation when changing. |
| Neurological Pathways | Established neural pathways represent learned behaviors; forming new ones requires time and effort. |

" ठिकै छ, अब आफ्नै गल्तिहरूबाटै सिक्नु भएको होला उसलाई भगवान् ले।
